Increased control and security with Alfresco

Swedish National Grid (Svenska kraftnät) has chosen Alfresco for its future project and document management solution. The driving force behind the investment has been to get increased control and security around the handling of documents and drawings. The solution offers a collaboration platform that supports document management, audit processes and integrations with the most common desktop softwares, both for internal users and suppliers.

Strategic Open Source Competence

We have signed a renewed framework agreement with The Swedish National Council for Crime Prevention (Brå) on strategic Open Source competence.

"We are pleased to be able to continue the partnership with Redpill Linpro. During the last four years we have developed a well functioning co-operation where Redpill Linpro has supplied the right competence when we have asked for it", says Mikael Hänström, acting IT Manager, Brå

S3-compatible Object Storage

Object-based storage solutions will play a big role for web and mobile application of the future, and we believe that there is a need for a Nordic solution, not least to address regulatory and security concerns.

We have built and tested a new product that we are going to provide to our customers: a Nordic, S3-compatible object storage solution.

At the Riak Meetup in March, we will give a behind the scenes presentation of the solution.

Simple and rapid deployments, with improved QA and stability

In May we will arrange a breakfast seminar where leading Enterprises in the Publishing and Multimedia verticals share how they work with Configuration Management.

The event will among other cover:

- The latest in Configuration Management and automation
- A presentation from ABC Startsiden called "Operations in a DevOps environment"

While this newsletter is published we work on another presentation where a major Publishing house shares their experiences. Lookout for more information in the March Newsletter.
