LATEST NEWS:

Lower you total cost of ownership

If you look into your organisations integration needs with partners, suppliers or customers - you might be interested to:

• Avoid investments in infrastructure, operations and knowledge

• Lower your total cost of ownership

• Choose from flexible delivery options

• Avoid vendor lock-in and expensive license costs

Read more about how you can go about above challenges by downloading our Integration Brokerage product leaflet and/or our out of the box connectors

Automate or go extinct

Doing things manually certainly does not scale. Working with Puppet makes sure that you are doing something really valuable while you and the rest of your organization figure out how to be successful with Big Data.

Read more about Big Data and Puppet, in this blog post

What about Hybrid Information Management?

There are new ways to collaborate across organizational boundaries. Check and share information with vendors, consultants, contractors or other third parties without losing control. Modern organizations locks neither their manpower nor their information to internal IT systems. It is increasingly important for employees to be able to work anytime, anywhere and with any device (e.g. mobile, PC, tablet).

Learn more about using Hybrid information management to enable organizations to share documents, files, images, or other content with anyone, in a controlled manner.

Puppet training and certification

Puppet keeps popping up as a top-growing tech skill, so why not validate your expertise and take your career to the next level? Skills and knowledge you have acquired on the job along with recommended Puppet training courses are the best preparation for your Puppet Professional certification exam.
